

Dear Wireless Internet Customer of Windstream Communications,

We are pleased to announce that Consolidated Telephone Company (CTC) has purchased the wireless Internet service that you use from Windstream Communications. You will become a customer of CTC in the very near future.

We look forward to serving you as our Internet customer. With our long history of serving central Minnesota, we believe our local customer service and expertise with your current wireless Internet service will deliver a great customer experience.

Your Internet service and the rates that you pay today for service will not change as a result of the purchase. Please look for future letters that will help explain how CTC will be transitioning your services. CTC will be your new Internet provider; however, Windstream will still be your home phone provider.
